

Life on the High Street

If you are getting into the habit of reading this weekly column you might like to know more about “DHC”. Dickins Hopgood Chidley LLP was set up 13 years ago by Julian Dickins, Victoria Hopgood and Christopher Chidley, solicitors working together in Newbury back in 1996. Since then and after various moves up the High Street we are now in The Old School House and there are six solicitors (Richard Drake, Amanda May and Charlotte Chidley have joined the original three) and Carina Deness who is a Conveyancing Executive. The seven of us are a close team with our loyal (and hardworking) support staff and we cover nearly all areas of legal practice you are likely to need from bankruptcy to probate, from conveyancing to commercial and everything in between. Hungerford being a law-abiding community none of us do criminal law, but if we can’t help you – we know a man (or woman) who can. Julian lives in Kintbury, Victoria in Ramsbury, Christopher in North Hampshire, Richard in Eastbury and Amanda and Charlotte in Hungerford. So the chances are that you know one or more of us already. We’re all able to be the first port of call and point you in the right direction. We welcome any enquiries and are always happy to spare time to discuss your needs and find a way of helping you – as it stays on our website (www.dhc-solicitors.co.uk) “When friendly advice is needed”.
